Board of Director Action this quarter

10/03/19:

Discussion on refunds for specialty shows that do not conform to set rules ~ BOD voted to not send a refund to District 4 Ohio show:

Vote: 6 yes, 0 no

10/20/19:

Proposal to limit National Show Sponsorships to $100 (Best Udder & Premier Breeder & Exhibitor Banners plus the Outstanding LaMancha Youth award. By doing that we save $300 and we use $200 of that to create a Youth Scholarship to attend Convention each year.

Vote: 6 yes, 0 no

10/20/19

Proposal to update club display to include 2 banners, a sign and a digital photo frame.

Vote: 6 yes, 0 no

10/28/19:

Request by a district specialty show to allow them to purchase replacement ribbons for their show as they were thrown away when the box was sent to them. They volunteered to pay for new awards.

Discussion: Concern over the way this show was run and handled but directors felt that there was no point in punishing the exhibitors. BOD felt that the best way to handle this was to have sponsoring show pay for new awards AND postage for awards to be mailed to exhibitors thus eliminating the chance of them disappearing again.

Vote: 4 yes, 1 undecided, 1 no response

The Youth Corner

ADGA Youth Rep, Don Strawbridge, with alternate, Emma

Don Strawbridge 2020 ADGA Youth Rep

Don Strawbridge of North Yarmouth, ME, discovered goats as an 8 year old after reading a book on homesteading. He purchased his first doeling - a Nigerian Dwarf in 2012 - and helped start his county's first in recent memory 4-H Dairy Goat Club. He bought his first LaMancha, Longvu LK Midnight Magic, in 2015 and has never wanted ears on a goat again.

Don learned about ADGA Youth Programs when he attended the 2017 ADGA National Convention in Atlanta. While there he decided to run for ADGA Youth Rep as soon as he was old enough.

"Youth Representatives not only have to represent the best of ADGA Youth to the rest of the organization, they also have to represent the best of ADGA to the new kids at Convention...the shy kids at Nationals and to anyone interested in goats who doesn't feel like they belong just yet," says Don. "I admire the representatives of past years, their examples and their leadership. I want to do the same."

The 2018 ADGA National Show marked Don's first national show, where he earned Premier Junior Youth Exhibitor and Premier LaMancha Youth Exhibitor. He and his sister went to the 2019 ADGA National Show in Redmond, OR and felt honored to borrow Trinity Smith Malmanis' Goat-San does for Youth Showmanship.

Don joined the American LaMancha Breeder's Association in the fall of 2016 and became a youth director from the East District in 2017. He also participates in his local dairy goat clubs: The Heart of Maine Dairy Goat Association, the Southern Maine Dairy Goat Association and the Southern Vermont Dairy Goat Association.

Don shows his heard of LaManchas throughout New England including representing Maine at the 4-H Dairy Goat Show at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, MA.

Off the farm, Don is a 10th grade honors student at Greely (Cumberland, ME) High School. He sings baritone in the honors chorus and sails on the high school team in Casco Bay.

Congratulations Don!
ALBA is so proud of you!!!

District 1: Cumberland Fair ~ Senior Youth

Don Strawbridge, Straw Bridge LaManchas

Don Strawbridge began showing LaManchas as a 4-Her in 2015. Showmanship is his favorite class and he appreciates learning from the many LaMancha breeders in New England and nationwide who have helped him build his herd. He looks forward to attending ADGA Conventions and National Shows and competing against and learning with his friends in ADGA Youth Events.

When he's not in the barn, Don enjoys singing in his high school choir and sailing in Casco Bay, Maine. He aspires to attend of the military service academies when he graduates from high school in 2022.

District 1: Cumberland Fair ~ Junior Youth

Cayden Smith, Smith Family Farm

Cayden Smith is a 13 year old 4-Her from North Yarmouth, ME, who purchased his first LaMancha from long-time LaMancha breeder, Donna Hamblin of Hamblin Farm on Cape Cod in Massachusetts in 2017. While Cayden has also owned Oberhasli's and Recorded Grade dairy goats, he has decided to focus solely on building his LaMancha herd and is looking forward to his two 3 year olds this fall. Cayden is the past president of his Dairy Goat 4-H Club and will represent the State of Maine in the 4-H Dairy Goat Competition at the Eastern States Exposition in September 2019.

Junior Youth Dylan Hoes

My name is Dylan Hoes and I am 11 years old. I live in Springtown, TX, where I raise and show my LaMancha goats. I also show rabbits and play baseball and basketball. I have been showing my goats for 2 years. Showmanship is my favorite part of showing. My goats are very special to me, and I hope to show and raise them for many more years.

Ryan Byers is 15 years old and lives in Hico, TX, where he lives with his parents and brother on the Circle 4B Ranch. Ryan began his journey in dairy goats with an Alpine scholarship doe from Prairie View Texas A&M in 2016. "Karisma" sparked a love for dairy goats and showing, and it wasn't long before he was introduced to LaManchas at a show. He immediately fell in love with the breed and their intelligence and quarkiness, and began researching bloodlines and traits, hoping to acquire one of his very own.

His dream became a reality when he brought home a young senior doe from the Dream-Fire Farm bloodlines in 2017. In 2018, Ryan was able to breed his own LaManchas under his herd name, Circle 4B Ranch, and those kids have been successful in the show ring, furthering his passion for this special breed.

Ryan's future goats include competing at the 2020 National Show with LaManchas that carry his herdname.

District 7: Oregon State Fair ~ Senior Youth

Kayla Boyd, Boyd Farms

Hi! I'm Kayla Boyd. I am a senior at Newberg High School. I have grown up raising goats. My family started out with Angora fiber goats. At age 5, I started showing Angora goats in open shows. When I started 4-H, I purchased dairy and meat goats using money from selling my Angora rabbits. I then bought my first dairy goat, Tempo A. F. Christmas. She is half Saanen and half LaMancha. I bred Christmas to LaMancha bucks and have several daughters from her. I have taken her to Nationals twice. I am also in FFA and will be attending the FFA National Convention in Indianapolis this October.

Roslyn Rosgen is 12 years old. She enjoys 4-H, drawing, her animals, being outdoors, and doing open goat shows. She enjoys making new friends and going to new places. When she grows up she wants to be a veterinarian. She likes LaManchas because of their personalities and cute ears.

May you and your family have a very blessed Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Gift of the Old One

The young couple had made their usual hurried, pre-Christmas visit to the little farm where dwelt their elderly parents with their small herd of goats. The farm had been named Lone Pine Farm because of the huge pine which topped the hill behind the farm, and through the years had become a talisman to the old man and his wife, and a landmark in the countryside. The old folks no longer showed their goats, for the years had taken their toll, but they sold a little milk, and a few kids each year, and the goats were their reason for joy in the morning and contentment at day's end.

Crossly, as they prepared to leave, the young couple confronted the old folks, "Why do you not at least dispose of "The Old One". She is no longer of use to use. It's been years since you've had either kids or milk from her. You should cut corners and save where you can. Why do you keep her anyway?" The old man looked down as his worn boot scuffed at the barn floor and his arm stole defensively about the Old One's neck as he drew her to him and rubbed her gently behind her ears. He replied softly, "We keep her because of love. Only because of love." Baffled and irritated, the young folks wished the old man and his wife a Merry Christmas and headed back toward the city as darkness stole through the valley. So it was, that because of the leave taking, no one noticed the insulation smoldering on the frayed wires in the old barn. None saw the first spark fall. None but the "Old One."

In a matter of minutes, the whole barn was ablaze and the hungry flames were licking at the loft full of hay. With a cry of horror and despair, the old man shouted to his wife to call for help as he raced to the barn to save their beloved goats. But the flames were roaring now, and the blazing heat drove him back. He sank sobbing to the ground, helpless before the fire's fury. By the time the fire department arrived, only smoking, glowing ruins were left, and the old man and his wife. They thanked those who had come to their aid, and the old man turned to his wife, resting her white head upon his shoulders as he clumsily dried her tears with a frayed red bandana.

Brokenly he whispered, "We have lost much, but God has spared our home on this eve of Christmas. Let us, therefore, climb the hill to the old pine where we have sought comfort in times of despair. We will look down upon our home and give thanks to God that it has been spared." And so, he took her by the hand and helped her up the snowy hill as he brushed aside his own tears with the back of his hand. As they stepped over the little knoll at the crest of the hill, they looked up and gasped in amazement at the incredible beauty before them.

Seemingly, every glorious, brilliant star in the heavens was caught up in the glittering, snow-frosted branches of their beloved pine, and it was aglow with heavenly candles. And poised on its top most bough, a crystal crescent moon glistened like spun glass. Never had a mere mortal created such a Christmas tree such as this. Suddenly, the old man gave a cry of wonder and incredible joy as he pulled his wife forward. There, beneath the tree, was their Christmas gift.

Bedded down about the "Old One", close to the trunk of the tree, was the entire herd, safe. At the first hint of smoke, she had pushed the door ajar with her muzzle and had led the goats through it. Slowly and with great dignity, never looking back, she had led them up the hill, stepping daintily through the snow. The kids were frightened and dashed about. The skittish yearlings looked back at the crackling, hungry flames, and tucked their tails under them as they licked their lips and hopped like rabbits. The milkers pressed uneasily against the "Old One" as she moved calmly up the hill and to safety beneath the pine.

And now, she lay among them and gazed at the faces of those she loved. Her body was brittle with years, but the golden eyes were filled with devotion as she offered her gift—Because of Love.

Only Because of Love.

Twas The Night Before Kidding

*Twas the night before kidding and all through the stalls
Were heard wide bellied yearlings with matronly calls.
The stalls there were bedded by the herdsman with care
In hopes of the babies that soon would be there.*

*The owners lay sleeping upstairs in their beds,
While visions of goatlings they danced in their heads.
They were really quite peaceful, then Pa heard a tap
On the window it continued, followed by a light rap.*

*Then noises they came from the barn over yonder,
Making him wonder, and think and then ponder.
He jumped out of bed and looked out his window,
"Come help me," he heard, "with this little brown doe,"*

*Was the message he heard from behind the oak tree.
"First one foot was coming, but now there are three!"
So with some more effort, a grunt and a sigh,
The kidding progressed and finally went by.*

*The little brown doe had a doe and a buck,
The owner just smiled and pondered his luck.
She was in the daughter of his favorite old doe,
A winner in bucket and even in show.*

*Those two little darlings still wobbly and wet,
Thankfully born without the help of a Vet.
Were perfectly formed and so very strong>
Now nuzzling at mama, and gurgling a song.*

*They slurped and they licked, even tried once to play,
Not quite sure exactly where they need to stay.
Then into the corner their mother directed,
She lay down beside them, oh so well protected.*

*What more could you ask for in this blessed season,
Great gifts from above, we all know the reason.
Remember it all throughout the long year,
'cause next kidding season again soon will be here!*

Dairy Goat Herd Health Program

Reprinted from www.milkproduction.com (DeLaval)

Guidelines for establishing a comprehensive herd health program for goats. Presents management basics for pregnant does, freshening and kid care, yearling doe and buck care and adult doe and buck care.

Overall Goals

The goal of a herd health program is to improve the herd's overall health and comfort and therefore improve productivity. An established herd health program allows the herd owner to have an organized routine and management practices in place. This is accomplished through sound nutrition, reproduction management and disease and parasite control. It is essential to keep good records to evaluate the success of your herd health program. Additionally, a veterinarian or consultant can easily look for ways to improve efficiency or performance of your program.

Each herd is different and requires that the program be tailored around the needs and goals of that herd. The following are guidelines that can be used to develop a successful herd health program.

Late Pregnancy and Early Dry Period Doe Care

The late pregnancy and dry period are very important to the success of the herd and many aspects of the health program. The pregnant doe should have a 40 to 60 day dry period to regain condition lost during lactation and allow the mammary glands to rest. Some believe that a resting period is not necessary for dairy goats. At drying off, treat both halves of the udder with dry cow mastitis antibiotics, using the same dose as recommended for cows. This is important even if the udder was healthy during the last lactation. Many new udder infections begin during the first several weeks of the dry period. Even though the goats are not being actively milked during this time, it is recommended to dip teats daily with an approved teat dip until milk production has stopped and the udder starts to decrease in size.

The dry period is an ideal time to plan to deworm and hoof trim. Internal parasites experience increased activity during late pregnancy and more parasites can be eliminated if the doe is dewormed during this time period. Parasite control during the dry period will help prevent excessive levels of parasite exposure for newborns as well as the doe. It is also important to check and treat any external parasites (lice, ticks or fly eggs) if found. Hoof trimming is very important to the mobility and comfort of the doe. By trimming the hooves during the dry period, less stress is placed on the doe when it is time to freshen. Late pregnancy is also an ideal time to give yearly booster shots of vaccines utilized in the herd. The vaccines give protection to the doe as well as ensure high levels of antibodies in the doe's colostrum for protection of the newborn kids. The vaccines used depend upon the problems and needs within each herd. The most common vaccines would be enterotoxemia (also known as overeating disease: caused by Clostridium perfringens types C and D), and tetanus. In regions where other clostridial diseases are common, a 7-way clostridial vaccine plus tetanus toxoid may be used. If this is not labeled for goats, consult your veterinarian for extra label usage.

In certain parts of the world, the soil is deficient in selenium. If this is the case, additional selenium and Vitamin E may be given during late pregnancy. This will provide the doe sufficient levels for her needs and prevent white muscle disease in the developing kids. It is necessary to consult your veterinarian if injectable selenium/Vitamin products are more conducive to your farm's needs.

Nutritionally, the dry period is a critical time. During the dry period, the doe should maintain her condition and weight. However, her metabolic and physiological needs are demanding as the doe prepares for the next lactation. The developing fetuses grow rapidly during the last several weeks of pregnancy, as do the metabolic demands on the doe. A common problem seen during the dry period is over conditioning of the doe. Over conditioning places excessive stress on the heavily pregnant doe and predisposes her to serious metabolic problems, such as ketosis.

The excessive abdominal fat and pregnant uterus reduce the capacity of the doe's rumen which prevents her from consuming enough feed to meet her metabolic needs as well as those of the rapidly growing fetuses. Subsequently, the doe begins to use her fat reserves to meet her metabolic needs and may develop ketosis (also known as pregnancy toxemia). It is important during the early dry period to provide good quality roughage to supply the dry doe's metabolic needs while ensuring an active, normally functioning rumen. Two to three weeks before freshening, her metabolic needs change dramatically and the doe requires more concentrated forms of energy, such as grain in addition to the good quality forage.

Freshening Doe and Newborn Kid Care

A clean kidding (freshening) area will help prevent any post-kidding complications such as uterine infections, retained placentas, mastitis, and problems in the newborn kids. Dip the newborns' navels in 7 percent iodine solution as soon as possible to prevent navel infections and complications that occur with these infections. Dip the navels again 12 hours after birth. Make sure the newborns receive colostrum as soon as possible after birth. It is best to hand feed the first 3 to 4 ounces of colostrum to ensure adequate levels in the kids. Examine newborns for abnormalities such as atresia ani (lack of anus or rectum), cleft palates and intersexes.

If mycoplasma or caprine arthritis encephalitis (CAE) is a concern in your herd, feed heat treated colostrum (133 degrees Fahrenheit for 60 minutes) to your newborn kids. It is also important to be present at the birth of the kids to prevent the doe from cleaning the kids off and to keep the kids from nursing the doe. This will decrease the exposure of the virus from doe to kid. The kids then must be fed milk replacer or pasteurized milk until weaned. The kids should be permanently separated from the infected adult herd. Identification of infected animals can be determined through routine blood sampling.

During the first 2 weeks, the kids should be disbudded and tattooed. When disbudding, the kids should be given tetanus antitoxin, selenium and vitamin E (in deficient areas). The kids should be vaccinated at 1, 2 and 6 months of age with the clostridial vaccines used in the herd.

Parasite control begins at birth and a well managed, clean environment is essential for parasite control. Anthelmintics alone cannot overcome a severely contaminated area. Coccidiostats and anthelmintics can be utilized but it is important to follow the label instructions. External parasites, such as lice and mites, are often overlooked but can be as devastating to young, growing animals as internal parasites. Routine examination and treatment are important.

Proper nutrition for young, growing kids is very important. It is important to follow the growth rates of growing kids to achieve adequate size at specific ages. Excellent nutrition will aid in maximizing the expression of their genetic potential.

Yearling Does and Bucks

Growing yearlings should be trim, sleek and active. Does and bucks should be separated at 3 months of age to prevent accidental early pregnancies. Monitor the success of the parasite control program with routine fecal egg counts and use anthelmintics as necessary. Vaccination boosters and routine hoof trimming are essential for a strong yearling herd.

Adult Does and Bucks

Nutritionally, feed to production needs with emphasis placed on quality fiber and protein concentrates. Disease control programs for herd problems such as abscesses, CAE, and Johne's disease consist of routine testing, vaccinating and /or culling.

Mastitis is best prevented by careful milking procedures and proper milking equipment. Teat dipping after milking and a clean environment, free of obstructions can aid in prevention of injury to the udder.

Since most goat operations have seasonal breeding programs, make sure that the bucks are ready and have the proper condition before breeding season. Routine hoof trimming is important for good feet and leg condition.

Conclusion

An established herd health maintenance program will provide a dairy goat herd with a solid foundation for performance
